

German Fleet Driven to Holland Coast During Today's Sea Fight With British

Germans Acknowledge Loss of 25,000 Men at Liege

EXCHANGE TELEGRAPH COMPANY'S DISPATCH FROM BRUSSELS IS AUTHORITY FOR STATEMENT SAID TO BE OFFICIAL.

GERMANS SEEK AN ARMISTICE

Belgians Are Said to be in Control of Forts Although Paris Dispatch Says Kaiser's Troops Have Entered the City.

London, Aug. 7.—An Exchange Telegraph company's dispatch from Brussels says the German troops at Liege acknowledge the loss of 25,000 men. The agency says the situation is intense.

Another dispatch to the Exchange Telegraph company at Brussels says the French army had now entered Belgium and has advanced well into the country.

A dispatch from Brussels to the Exchange Telegraph company today says that German troops attacking Liege have asked for a twenty-four hours' armistice.

The correspondent of the Daily News at Brussels sends the following dispatch:

"All the forts surrounding Liege are intact."

A Belgian airman thus describes the German attack on Liege:

"After a terrible cannonade the German infantry approached en masse and reached the glacis of the fort where the heavy defensive guns were unable to reach them. General Lemann sent artillery to a point where the invading infantry could be shelled, and the Germans were swept from their position. This occurred several times during the day and night."

Red Cross automobiles arriving at Brussels said that the ground before the fort was covered with dead and wounded Germans.

Have Entered Liege.

Paris, Aug. 7.—Official reports received here say that the German troops have entered the city of Liege, but have not been able to take the fort. The Belgium troops have captured twenty-seven cannons.

Surrender Demanded.

Brussels, Aug. 7.—Le Peuple says the bombardment of Liege had caused six or seven fires in the city up to seven o'clock last evening. The heaviest firing occurred yesterday afternoon. German officers then came to the city with a white flag and demanded the surrender of the city. They received a negative reply and the bombardment was resumed at six o'clock. Martial law has been proclaimed throughout Belgium.

WILL HOLLAND GET INTO THE MIXUP?

Queen Wilhelmina.

Queen Wilhelmina of Holland is bending every effort to keep her little country out of the maelstrom of war. Should Holland be drawn into the European conflict, her strength would be pitted against Germany.

McLaren, authority on war, asserts that the loss of life in battle since authentic history began, amounts to 1,400,000,000, or the entire population of the globe for the last 300 years. From 1683 until 1815 the Old World saw 65 years of solid wars which cost the people $3,450,000,000, not counting a debt of $4,000,000,000.

GERMAN STEAMSHIPS PREY OF CRUISERS OF BRITISH FLEET

Merchant Ships Taken As War Prizes In Many Ports—English Cruiser Sunk By Mine.

[BY ASSOCIATED PRESS.]

Cherbourg, France, Aug. 7.—The French mine layer Pluton captured and brought here a German merchant ship of five thousand tons.

English Boat Sunk.

Antwerp, Aug. 7.—It was reported today that the British tank steamer San Wilfredo of nine hundred twenty-eight tons which arrived at Hamburg from New Orleans July 29, was on her return trip, has been destroyed by a mine off Cuxhaven, Germany.

Capture Steamer.

Plymouth, England, Aug. 7.—The British cruiser Vindicator today captured the German steamer Schlesien, of three thousand five hundred eighty-eight tons, and brought her into this port.

Held as Prize.

Quebec, Aug. 7.—Reports from Rimouski, Quebec, on the lower St. Lawrence river, were to the effect that a German steamer was being held at that place as a prize.

Struck a Mine.

Constantinople, Aug. 7.—The British steamer Craigforth of eighteen hundred forty-two tons, was beached here today, after striking a mine.

Escapes Capture.

San Francisco, Aug. 7.—The German freighter Alexandria of the Cosmos line with a million dollar cargo, was sighted five miles outside of the heads bound in at 10:50 a. m. today. Had the British cruiser Rainbow, which passed in two hours and twenty minutes earlier, delayed her arrival, she might have made a rich prize of war.

REPORT ATTEMPT TO KILL KAISER'S SON

German Crown Prince Said to Have Been Seriously Injured By An Unknown Assassin.

[BY ASSOCIATED PRESS.]

London, Aug. 7.—The Standard says that it has heard from a reliable source that the German crown prince has been seriously injured by an unidentified assassin, who after inflicting great wounds, escaped.

The German authorities in their efforts to chase the assassin inflicted great indignities on several Englishmen, according to the same report.

TWO GERMAN SHIPS LEAVE SALVADORE

Cruisers Leave San Salvador With Decks Cleared for Action and Under Full Steam.

[BY ASSOCIATED PRESS.]

Messina, Sicily, Aug. 7.—The German cruisers Goeben and Breslau sailed out of San Salvador at half past five this morning under full steam. Their decks were cleared for action in the expectation of meeting the vessels of the British fleet.

A flying squadron of German captains left their wills with the German consul before sailing.

In case Japan is drawn into the general European war Admiral Togo will in all likelihood play a prominent part in the naval operations. He was the hero of the Russo-Japanese war, leading the fleets of the emperor to brilliant victory over the Russian fleet.

BRITISH IN GERMANY REPORTED IN DANGER

Englishmen Are Watched by Police and Many Are Held Prisoners.—American Embassy Acts.

[BY ASSOCIATED PRESS.]

Oldenzaal, Netherlands, Aug. 7.—The correspondent in Berlin of Reuters Telegraph Company, who with other British subjects was expelled from the German capital, arrived here with several other newspaper correspondents on the train which conveyed the British ambassador, Sir. William Edward Goschen.

The correspondent says the British declaration of war on Germany was followed by an attack on the British embassy. A crowd besieged the building for hours, smashing all the windows.

The same night two American and two English correspondents were arrested on suspicion of being spies, but were released a few hours later through the efforts of the American ambassador.

All British subjects in Germany, according to the correspondent, are being rounded up by the police, and about forty of them have been kept prisoners in the fortress of Spandau, but the American embassy in Berlin hopes to be able to bring about their release.

MAY HOLD OLYMPIC FOR BRITISH NAVY

Crack Liner of White Star Line May Not Sail From New York—Vaterland to Carry Reserves.

[BY ASSOCIATED PRESS.]

New York, Aug. 7.—The Olympic, the crack ship of the White Star line, may not be permitted to sail tomorrow for Southampton, inasmuch as she belongs to the British naval reserves. After receiving the department of commerce's instructions concerning enforcement of neutrality, custom officials declined today to say whether they would give her clearance.

The Red Star liner Vaterland, booking only male passengers for Belgium, and with a large accommodation deck, dating two thousand persons, placed at the call of the Belgium consul here for reservists, may also be held, according to the custom officials.

St. Paul Sails.

The American liner St. Paul, the first trans-Atlantic liner to leave New York without fear of capture since Great Britain and Germany went to war, sailed today with crowded cabins and staterooms for Liverpool.

The St. Paul flies the stars and stripes and, therefore, is not subject to seizure by any of the European warships.

Had the liner twice her accommodation for passengers, she could not have carried all who sought passage. She sailed with four hundred and fifty aboard.

Issues Orders.

Washington, Aug. 7.—Foreign merchant ships being converted for war purposes or carrying foreign reservists in organized manner will not be permitted to clear from ports of the United States.

INDUSTRIAL RELATIONS COMMISSION ADJOURNS

[SPECIAL TO THE GAZETTE.]

Butte, Mont., Aug. 8.—After a three day hearing at which many well known labor leaders and heads of big business testified, the United States industrial relations commission adjourned today. The next hearing of the commission will be held at Seattle, Washington, August 10 to 15, inclusive.

FEDERALS ROUTED FROM DEFENSE LINE

Two Forces Fighting Fiercely at Federal Fort When Federals Received New Supplies.

[BY ASSOCIATED PRESS.]

Mazatlan, Mex., Aug. 7, via wireless to San Diego, Aug. 7.—Insurgents have taken all of the outer defenses of Mazatlan. All night long today there was fighting between constitutionalists and the federal garrison. The federals exhausted their ammunition but obtained fresh supplies from the transports in the bay.

The Japanese steamer Idzumo is coaling at Mazatlan preparatory to running to Japan.

Expect Trouble.

Washington, Aug. 7.—General Carranza and Provisional President Carbajal have failed to agree on transferring power in Mexico, and trouble is expected in Mexico City where the population is reported panic-stricken. Constitutionalists forces are marching on the capital.

This was the official explanation today of events in Mexico during the last twenty-four hours. The United States government sent a strong protest to General Carranza, stating that he gave the Carbajal delegates an opportunity to be heard, but the envoys already had left Saltillo and are now on their way to Vera Cruz. Official reports to the state department say General Carranza did not accord the Carbajal delegates "even scant courtesy."

Were Denied.

When the envoys presented what they termed suggestions, the Carranza representatives flatly rejected all, and declared the conference at an end. The American government sent word that it had every reason to believe the suggestion would be completely modified if the Carbajal delegates were given opportunity to take the moves.

Chagrined.

At the course of Carranza, was apparent and it was predicted that the United States would keep its military forces at Vera Cruz indefinitely.

Churchill Denies Report of Heavy Losses at Sea

BRITISH ADMIRALTY LORD SAYS ENGLISH CRUISER AMPHONIA AND GERMAN MINE LAYER KOENIGIN LOUISE ARE ONLY SHIPS SUNK.

MAKES OFFICIAL STATEMENT

Announcement Made Today in Parliament Serves to Allay Excitement Caused by Stories of Wholesale Destruction of German Warships.

BULLETIN.

London, Aug. 7.—Persistent reports of important encounters, maneuvering for strategic positions in the North Sea, kept the British public in a state of agitation throughout the forenoon. The excitement was not allayed until the first lord of the admiralty made the official announcement in parliament that stories of fighting and other losses other than those of the British cruiser Amphonia and the German mine layer Koenigin Louise, were unfounded.

[BY ASSOCIATED PRESS.]

London, Aug. 7.—Winston Spencer Churchill, first lord of the British admiralty, declared in the house of commons today that there had not been any fight or losses other than had been announced officially. The first lord said:

Winston Churchill

"Apart from the loss of the small British cruiser Amphonia, and the German mine-layer Koenigin Louise, there had been no other fighting and no other loss so far as we are aware. On Wednesday a flotilla of torpedo boat destroyers while patrolling the upper regions of the channel, found the Koenigin Louise laying mines. A destroyer pursued and sank her. About fifty of her crew, which probably numbered 120 to 130 men, were humanely saved by the crews of the British fleet."

Plans Press Bureau.

Referring to the disconcerting war rumors spread by the newspapers, Mr. Churchill said they were probably due to the very strict censorship prevailing, and this caused the papers to fill their columns with reports from irresponsible and nervous persons on the

NON-FREEZING FOUNT

A Very Useful Invention for Winter Time.

A supply of fresh water is at all times essential for the health and comfort of the chickens, and in the winter time it is a difficult thing to provide, for the water will freeze tight in a few minutes after it is put out. It is claimed by some observers that water which is slightly heated will congeal more rapidly than cold water, so that this suggestion does not offer any relief. A new invention to take care of the water in winter weather is shown in the accompanying cut. The subject of a recent patent grant. It has an opening at its side where the water is supplied to a trough located below the opening of the reservoir. Above it is a sloping side wall. The fountain has a removable cover, which also is packed with nonconducting material. The atmospheric pressure on the small quantity of water in the trough will retain the mass of liquid within the main reservoir so long as the liquid in the trough is sufficient to maintain the orifice or opening to the trough closed.

FOUNTAIN WHICH WILL NOT FREEZE UP.

ALL PRIVATE SEWERS MUST BE CONNECTED WITH CITY SYSTEM

Work on River Banks Halted Because of Private Sewers Running Into River.

City officials will order connections of private sewers of the business stores in the immediate vicinity of the Milwaukee street bridge with the sanitary sewer running on Main street to Monterey. City workmen employed at cleaning up the river banks yesterday discovered that sewage from the several buildings was piped into the river in violation of the ordinance requiring that all sewers shall be connected with the main sewer, and under no condition shall sewage be allowed to flow into the river above Monterey.

Because of this violation the city will be unable to level the banks as planned until the proper connections are made. The work of making the connections with the sanitary sewer will be small, as pipes are laid to the curb line on Main street.

LIGHTNING IN LEAD AS CAUSE OF FIRES

Fire Marshal's Report for July Indicates Total Loss in State Was $70,880.

(SPECIAL TO THE GAZETTE.)

Madison, Wis., Aug. 7.—Lightning again easily led in fire causes reported for the month of July to State Fire Marshal Clem. P. Host. Fifty-six such fire caused losses of $170,880, upon which insurance of $175,095 was carried. Total fires for the month were 214, as compared with 200 in July, 1913; losses were $422,015, against $294,360 last year, and insurance $1,040,000, compared with $552,450 a year ago.

Unknown sources of fires were reported in 26 cases and the losses were $176,000. Fourteen were caused by spontaneous combustion, principally from hay which was stored in barns while in a green state. This damage amounted to $64,935. Matches in numerous ways led to 24 fires and losses of $13,685. Incendiary and suspicious fires were ten and losses $9,085. There were ten fires from abandoned buildings and damage of $12,250. Unwatched bonfires in four cases were responsible for $19,105 waste.

Cool Food for Hot Days

Better health comes with less meat and greasy food during the warm weather.

By proper and pleasant food one can feel cooler than his over-fed neighbor.

Grape-Nuts AND CREAM

—some fruit and a soft boiled egg, or two, is sufficient for the hot weather breakfast.

An ordinary portion of Grape-Nuts and cream contains nourishment to sustain one until the noonday meal; and being a partially pre-digested food, it does not over-tax the stomach and heat the system as do heavy, greasy foods.

These suggestions, if followed, should show that one can have a cool body, active brain and energy—even in hot weather.

MARTIN HALVERSON DIED THIS MORNING

Demise of Pioneer of Janesville and War Veteran Occurred at Six O'clock.—Was 76 Years Old.

Another of Janesville's pioneers and highly respected citizens has passed away. The death of Martin Halversen came this morning at six o'clock, after an illness of over six months, during which time he had been confined more or less to his bed at his home, 170 South Cherry street.

Mr. Halversen was born in Christiansia, Norway, in 1838, and came to this country fifty years ago, settling directly in this city. He arrived in time to join the 38th Wisconsin regiment, and went to war with the north. After the struggle he entered the dry goods store owned by McKey Bros., where he was clerk for many years. He had more recently held similar positions with the Burns and Reid stores. About seven years ago he retired from active business. He leaves a daughter, Marguerite Halversen, and a son, Oscar, both of this city.

Mr. Halversen was one of the few remaining Civil war veterans in this city, before his death. They are passing away quietly and rapidly, leaving a memory back of them never to be forgotten. Those who knew Mr. Halversen speak of him in highest terms. He was a friend to everyone and was a loyal member of the Norwegian Lutheran church.

Funeral services will be held Sunday afternoon at three o'clock at the home, 170 South Cherry street, Rev. E. O. Hoffman of the St. Peter's English Lutheran church officiating. The G. A. R. will have charge of the services at the grave. Interment will be made in Oak Hill cemetery.

STABLES ARRIVE TO PREPARE FOR RACES

Much Activity at the Fair Grounds Preparing for Week's Exhibits and Races.

At the Park Association grounds there is redoubled activity in making everything ready for next week's fair. The stable hands have arrived and George Gano, Electric Patch and other of the famous horses owned by Mr. Savage are being given preliminary work for the races they are entered in. The big exhibit hall of the manufacturers and merchants is rapidly taking form and gives promise of showing to advantage a large exhibit. The entry books for the various exhibits are at Putnam's store, and will be found at the fair grounds. Monday morning will be at the secretary's office at the fair grounds. Many of the stock will arrive Sunday morning and some is already on the grounds. Exhibits and arrivals for all departments, assuring a good entry list.

OBITUARY.

Thomas O'Neill, Sr. Funeral services for Thomas O'Neill, Sr., were held at 2 o'clock this morning at the St. Mary's church. Father Goebel, officiating. The pallbearers were: W. A. Murray, Phil Doherty, James Hickey and William Rahr. Interment was made in Mt. Olivet cemetery.

What's the Answer?

What gives us our sense of loathing for the garden toad, demurely useful little neighbor that he has proved himself, while his second cousin, the frog, who seems to do nothing but play the dandy and the braggart, is uniformly treated as a good fellow? If the toad gulped and croaked all night long, and made his home in slimy pools instead of in the meadow patch, would they reverse their present opinion on our estimate?—Atlantic.

To Clean a Sponge.

For sponges that have become slimy, it is found by treating them in the following manner makes them good as new: Get a basin, fill it with boiling water and a little washing soda, then put the sponge into this and leave it for several hours. When this is finished, rinse in plain hot water, afterwards rinsing in cold. Leave the sponge in the cold water until you are ready to use it again.

CHURCHILL DENIES LOSSES IN NORTH SEA BATTLE

Reports from various ports say that heavy firing has been heard in the North Sea for the past twenty-four hours.

German Fleet Battered. A dispatch to the Daily News from New Castle says that wireless reports from the South Shetland Islands foretold that the British fleet engaged the German high seas fleet in a heavy battle off the South Dogger Banks.

After a general engagement along the battle line, which extended for many miles and in which many ships on both sides took part, the German fleet was beaten back and moved in the direction of the coast of Holland. It is now believed that the German fleet is completely hemmed in on the eastern side of the North Sea.

Witnessed Fighting. Lowestoft, Eng., Aug. 7.—Travelers returning here today report that they witnessed fighting in the North Sea Wednesday. A German destroyer was fleeing from two British cruisers. A dense cloud of smoke from the German guns gave the impression that she was afire.

CORNS LOOSENED WHILE YOU SLEEP

Tonight put Blue-Jay on that corn. From that time on there will be no pain. Blue-Jay will gently undermine the corn while you sleep and work. In 48 hours the whole corn will come out. Think of it every time it pains. Corns are utterly needless. At five cents per corn you can end them completely. How can you know this? Ask your neighbors. Half the corns around you are being ended in this way. Or ask us for free samples. Or go buy a million corns a month are being removed in this simple, painless way. And nine corns in ten require but one application.

Send to Bauer & Black, Chicago, for a free sample of Blue-Jay, postpaid. Quicker yet, ask your druggist for a package of Blue-Jay today, 15c and 25c. Then say good-bye to corns.

GLOWS AS IF BY MAGIC

New Electric Lantern, Operation of Which is Controlled by the Ball.

A brand-new idea in the design of portable electric lamps is one built on the lines of a Pullman conductor's lamp for convenience in carrying, but the most notable feature of the device is the mysterious manner in which its operation is controlled. The lantern may be reposing idly on a shelf or other place for keeping it, and the instant it is picked up the incandescent lamp commences to glow. If you desire to lay it down temporarily, you do so, and the lamp continues to glow, and you desired to put it away permanently, and as you do so the illumination from the lamp ceases. This mysterious operation is performed by the handle. When the ball is in an upright position the lamp is always in action, but when it is dropped to one side its operation is unaffected and it continues to glow, but drop it on the other side and the lamp is extinguished.

Missionaries Discover Waterfall. Father Colbachini of the Salesian order, founded by Don Bosco, which has important mission stations among the Indians of Brazil, reports the discovery of a great waterfall on the Rio das Mortes, in the Mato Grosso, which he named after Plus X. The Rio das Mortes, which is between 150 and 200 meters wide and more than two meters deep in its higher course, narrows down gradually to about eight meters, and the immense volume of its waters dashes down through a mass of high rocks in a wonderful waterfall more than 500 meters long. Father Colbachini had the name of Plus X cut in the rock near the waterfall and erected a large cross made from the branches of two trees on the brink of the water. He then explored the lower course of the river. The surface of the region crossed by Father Colbachini and his party of Bororo is covered by strata of sandstone deeply eroded and indented by water, and the river basin was surrounded by ridges and ranges of hills.—New York Sun.

SPORTS

NO INTEREST TAKEN

HEAVYWEIGHTS

Jess Willard Best of the Numberless Crops of White Hopes—Notes of Roped Arena.

Where are the old time heavyweights?—that the followers of the pugilistic game used to honor and prize—who occupied all the limelight of the game and grabbed most of the coin, crowding the lightweights and other classes of boxers off the columns of the sport page? Not since Jeffries retired and allowed the title to escape into the hands of Jack Johnson, through Burns, has the fans taken an interest in the heavyweights. Unless a white reliever Johnson of the belt the interest of fans in the big fellows will probably die a natural death.

Shortly after Black Jack took the front seat, the white hopes began to sprout out and every where a boxing manager discovered a ditch digger with a couple of hundred pounds of brawn, a hopeless conglomeration of fat and brawn, but shy of boxing brains, a wild cry went round the country that a new hope was discovered. The test of boxing sifted them all down and what fell through the bottom of the ring, were classed as dubs and only a few remain. At present of the whole flock there is possibly only two or three that could stand up before the big black and make any kind of a fight. Gumboat Smith, a month ago was the foremost heavyweight in this country and many experts held the opinion that he could take the measure of the "Dingie", but Smith's losing to Carpenter, even through a questionable foul shows that he has not got the stuff to whip Johnson. The only way that Carpenter could hope to take the candy away from the present champion would be by the foul route, which the Frenchman has become such an expert in his last few battles. Morris wants a match over in Europe, but kind mercy will probably keep him away from the undertaking room, for while there is war over in Gay Paree the sport fans cannot think of anything except of kicking the Prussians.

Jess Willard appears to be the real cream of all the hopes standing high above the rest of the American contingent and it is barely possible that if the day life takes away a little of Johnson's speed, Willard might emerge a winner if these two battled. Johnson, as shown in the Moran battle, lets his rival do the leading and leads him to it with short counters that have wicked steam behind them. Willard has a better power than any heavyweight of this country and is fairly fast and these qualities would stand an excellent chance of kicking Mistah Johnson.

Not despatches give an account of Johnson's willingness to join the French army and even lending the use of his marvellous of joy wagons to be used as ambulances. Jack is a French citizen—inasmuch as he dare not speak back to U. S. A., for a government of trial stores. In it fact, Jack would probably prefer the Swiss navy if there was any real call for real, dead in wool fighting.

It appears that Cyclone Johnny Thompson has asked for a bout with Nelson appears as his opponent. The Syracuse Cyclone has a good draw with John Willis, and is seeking more bouts. It is doubtful if a large enough purse can be put out to insure a real bout with Cyclone as the headline in the like. Boxing promoters in small day odds are not making any money and Thompson does not have to beg for money.

Walter Pauman, who boxed before the Jansville club twice last season, was fined $50 and suspended ten days for striking Empire Nugent at Rockford recently. Had Walter annexed that setup on Spike Kelly up at Madison, it would have been vastly better for him, for Walter will have difficulty in obtaining good matches this coming season if he does the padding.

It happens that Tom Jones has no intention of deserting Matty McGraw, even if Rivers hit his protegee so hard for a month. McGraw is considering several matches in the future in Wisconsin and Michigan. McGraw may sign with Phil Baker or Oliver Kirk.

Chicago sport scribes praise the talk of Billy "Goats" Dooling of Springfield in his match the other day with Peter Hammer, the rugged Chicago lightweight. Goats gave Dooling a severe hammering and his prospects as a leader were declared mighty bright. Young Brown and Pal Moore meet in New York tonight in a ten round bout.

Sport Snap Shots

Ray Caldwell, the Yank's pitching sensation, is in many respects the sensation of the present season. For several years past Caldwell has been with the Yank's and previous to the present year he had never been regarded as anything better than an ordinary big league pitcher. True, the early part of last summer Caldwell showed several gleams of real warm stuff, but a sore arm developed that kept him from displaying all his class. This year, however, he has come forth with all he has and has amazed all who have cared to read about it. The record he has picked up this season is a startling one. He is being credited with more than half of the games the Yanks have won, which alone is quite an achievement. Some of his other performances follow: He has finished every game he started, not being taken out of the box for any reason all season. Where he relieved another pitcher he remained in the game until it was over.

He was not scored upon for twenty-nine consecutive innings—the first twenty-nine full games he pitched this season.

He scored shutout victories over five American League clubs—the Athletics, Red Sox, Senators, Naps and White Sox.

In five other full games he held the opposing club to a single run, six times he allowed only two runs and twice he was reached for three runs. Twice he allowed four runs and once he allowed five. No team has passed this mark in scoring against him.

Since the season opened he has pitched 100 innings—a fraction over twenty-one full games. The opposing clubs have scored forty runs against him, averaging a fraction less than two runs per game. This includes earned as well as unearned runs.

In the seven defeats charged against him the Yankees have given him only eight runs to work on. They were shut out twice, scored only one run in three games two in another and three in another.

In his seven defeats the opposing teams have scored eighteen runs against him, or less than three runs per game. In four games he held his opponents to two runs or less, yet was defeated.

He has finished four games which do not show in his record, the other pitcher getting the defeat or victory, and in these four Caldwell allowed only two runs in seven innings.

Somers, the Cleveland Nap owner, was quite in earnest when he said that he would be glad to close down his park and pay his team off for the summer. The Naps have cost him a pretty penny this year. The Cleveland American Association team, also owned by Somers, has made a little for him, but not by any means enough to discount the losses on the Naps.

AUSTRALIAN TEAM WINS IN DAVIS CUP MATCHES

The Australian tennis team defeated the English representatives in the play yesterday at Boston to determine the challengers for the Davis cup. A. F. Wilding, the biggest half of the Australian team, won from A. H. Love and Norman Brooks defeated J. C. Parks after five sets. Parks twice had victory within reach, only to fall because of being over anxious.

LAST OF FINAL ROUND IN DAVIS CUP PRELIMS

[SPECIAL TO THE GAZETTE.] Boston, Aug. 7.—The third and fourth singles matches between England and Australasia, who are fighting out the final round of the preliminary competitions for the honor of meeting the American team in the Davis cup matches, were scheduled for this afternoon on the courts of the Longwood Cricket Club. A big gallery is expected to turn out to witness the events.

EXPECT WHITE TO K. O. JOE AZEVEDO TONIGHT

Experts on boxing agree that Joe Azevedo, the Portuguese lightweight, has only an outside chance against Charlie White in Frisco tonight in White's first appearance before the coast fans since becoming the leading lightweight of the country. Both fighters finished their training yesterday afternoon, and White expressed a desire to end the fight quickly tonight, and the Chicago man has a world of confidence since he knocked out Yokum.

Says Men Are All Alike. In the Woman's Home Companion appeared the story of a coquette in which the coquette gives the following advice to her cousin: "Don't make the stupid mistake thousands of women make. Don't! Every woman thinks her husband is different. But, trust a worldly woman, my dear, of much experience, men are all alike. They tire of what they know is entirely their own. The thing a man should never lose sight is that his wife is attractive to other men as well as to himself."

LOCAL TEAM MEETS FAST NINE SUNDAY

Jansville Cardinals Play Whitewater Nine at Fair Grounds Sunday Afternoon.

Four games straight is the record that the Jansville Cardinals have made since they have donned the spangles two weeks ago, and on Sunday they have an opportunity of making it five straight over the fast Whitewater team, when the pair of nines meet at the association diamond. The fans have been supporting the nine in good style during the last few games, and since the new grand stand has been completed it is expected there will be a large turnout for Sunday's program. The regular nine of the Cardinals will be in the field Sunday with Crandall in the box. Not much is known of the strength of the visitors, but when the game was scheduled, Captain Porter told the Whitewater men to bring down the strongest team they could gather.

IN TIME OF SORROW.

The heart of the nation goes out to President Wilson in this his dark hour of personal affliction. The prayers of the people will be for the bereft husband, the motherless daughters and the great grief that has come to our nation's head. Mrs. Wilson was a woman of peculiar helpfulness and devotion. She gave her husband the love and companionship that aided him so materially in his scholastic effort, educational endeavor and public service. As mistress of the White House, she took her place as first lady in the land and her sweet and loving disposition won for her instant recognition. Her death will be as sincerely mourned by many from the lower strata of society as in the circle of her own friends, for it was by her untiring labor of love in behalf of the poor and oppressed she gradually wore her own life away. She has passed to the world beyond and the world sorrows with the dear ones left behind to mourn her loss.

THE WAR NEWS.

The Chicago Evening American makes the following editorial suggestion as to the reliability of the war news that is being received daily from various European sources. It is a wise suggestion just at this time and should be given particular attention. Those interested in the war because of German or Austrian descent must not be too much discouraged by the "war news" widely published, and to be published, if it seems against their hopes. Those whose interest is based on relationship with France or England or Russia must not be too much or unduly elated by good news in the "war bulletins."

Let readers remember that this newspaper, and others that are mentioned, are not giving out news as quickly as possible every dispatch, every rumor, every "piece of news," giving the origin of the news and rumors, but vouching only for official statements.

Remember also that American newspapers get their news very largely from English sources. This is especially true now, since in Germany, France, Italy and Russia the censorship makes it almost impossible to send out dispatches.

The great majority of the correspondents of American newspapers—the most important correspondents at least—are located in England.

The "war news" that comes here is largely filtered through English press associations. English war correspondents, and naturally the color that is given voluntarily or otherwise is in favor of England, France and Russia and against Germany and Austria.

This must be remembered by those who would intelligently construe the war bulletins and give to each as nearly as possible its fair value.

THE LOW COUNTRIES.

Thus far the fighting of any importance in the great struggle across the Atlantic has been fought on Belgian soil, fought by Germans and Belgians without the aid of either the English or French. Fought by men defending their homes and firesides from an invasion by an armed force in a war in which they have little or no interest. The low country is certainly receiving its share of the baptism of blood and the sympathy of intelligent people must be out to them. If ever there were peoples entitled to the unqualified respect of the world it is the Dutch and the Belgians. Their industry, their thrift, their solid and enlightened love of peace, set a standard which even this country might do well to emulate. As long ago as the fourteenth century the rich cities of Flanders and Brabant were the seats of a vast industry. There the arts flourished as nowhere else outside of Italy. They were, moreover, the strongholds of a growing, sturdy impulse toward civil liberty. In the middle of the thirteenth century the powerful dukes of Burgundy were unable completely to cope with the free republicanism in their Flemish dominions.

For more than two centuries their industry and wealth have rendered the low countries constantly subject to the cupidity of the powers. From the beginning of the sixteenth century nearly every treaty has been concluded at the expense of Belgium, Holland, or both. How splendidly the gallant burghers have always fought for their civil and religious liberties every school child knows. They have also on occasion delivered hard knocks in the bloody struggle for the world's commerce. To this day it is a tender spot in the history of Great Britain that the Dutch navy was the only hostile naval force that ever penetrated beyond the mouth of the Thames.

The low countries have enjoyed uninterrupted peace and prosperity since 1832, when the Belgian independence of the House of Orange was finally established by the treaty of London and Belgium's neutrality was guaranteed by Great Britain. And now neutrality, peace, and prosperity are all threatened and a quarrel in which neither Belgium nor the Netherlands has the slightest real interest. For years the Prussian bogey has been held up as a menace by the jingoists. Anti-German feeling has been strong in both countries. The Dutch have announced in no measured terms that they would sooner open the dikes and let in the sea before they would suffer one inch of their hard won, fertile land to fall under Prussian suzerainty. This hostile feeling has not been fully justified, and it undoubtedly is the preoccupation of Germany's branch of the neutrality of the low countries. The art is, after all, the art of defeating one's enemies. It would be obviously unsafe for Germany to attack France with two sturdy peoples, bitter German haters for all their protestations of neutrality, on her exposed flank. Moreover, it was quite evidently a question which power would be first to violate Belgium's neutrality. The protest of France was all the more violent because her own troops were suspiciously massed on the Belgian border.

But whichever wolf it is that devours their substance, the Belgians and Dutch can have slight consolation for the fact that their fields will be devastated, the fruits of their thrift scattered, and their peace destroyed in a quarrel that does not concern them.

THE HYPOCRITES.

John Aylward and his political advisors believe that in order to win their cause they must besmear the character and motives of opponents and flay the doctrines of the opposing political party. The Aylward platform issued Thursday, closes with the following statement:

"The republican candidates have sought to defend the outrageous state taxes. Now by common consent they admit the reign of extravagances and each seeks to cast the heavy burden upon the other. Surely the betrayal of a great party trust should not be the basis for reward. The party and the individual most responsible for the conditions should be held responsible and they are powerless to change them."

The Milwaukee Free Press takes exception to it and makes the following comment upon it, stating facts for Mr. Aylward's consideration.

"But how about the responsibility of the democratic minority in the last legislature, which, in proportion to its ability, contributed just as much if not more to the 'outrageous state taxes' as the republican majority. Let us recall the record:

"In the joint committee on finance, the motions recommending the passage of eighteen of the twenty-five most important appropriation bills were made by democrats. There were five democrats on this committee. The collective vote cast by these five committeemen was eighty. Seventy votes were cast in favor of recommending these bills for passage and only ten against.

"In the assembly, the democrats cast in the aggregate 561 votes for these twenty-five bills and only eighty votes against. In the senate, the vote on final passage was unanimous on seventeen of them. The six democratic senators cast a total of sixteen votes against these bills, whereas they might have cast in the aggregate 150 votes in opposition to the twenty-five different appropriations.

"Then there is Mr. Husting, Mr. Aylward's factional ally and democratic candidate for senator. He was the acknowledged leader of the democrats in the legislature. Yet he voted for eighty-six and against only eleven of the 116 appropriation bills.

"Will Mr. Aylward kindly explain why, in the circumstances, the people should consider the democrats any less 'powerless to change conditions' than the republicans?"

RETURN TO REASON.

Election returns from Kansas indicate that the voters of that state have returned to reason and by defeating Joseph L. Bristow, present United States senator and candidate for reelection, naming in his place his conservative opponent, former Senator Curtis, have demonstrated clearly that the ultra progressive wave is rapidly receding even in the land of populism, sun-flowers, whiskers and Mary Ellen Leases and Carrie Nations. The public is tired of Joseph and the stinging rebuke to Bristow comes at just the right time to be of influence the country through. Wisconsin is selecting a senator this year and there are several of the candidates that might easily be classed with Bristow which should be a warning to the voters to take care in making their selections.

The local contests for legislative and county offices continues unabated. Many of the candidates are finding encouragement as they proceed with their campaign but the races are gradually narrowing down as the time for the primary approaches.

NATION MOURNS DEATH OF PRESIDENT'S WIFE

PASSING OF MRS. WOODROW WILSON IS CAUSE FOR HEART-FELT GRIEF.

PLAN PRIVATE FUNERAL

Officially Announced at White House Today That Services Would be Private.—A Most Capable Woman.

(BY ASSOCIATED PRESS.)
Washington, Aug. 7.—Flags all over the country were at half mast today out of respect and reverence to the memory of Mrs. Wilson, wife of the president, who passed away at five o'clock Thursday afternoon. She died at her home at the White House that arrangements were being made for a private funeral.

The president's death had been recalled today by one of those present. As the last hour drew near the president sat on the bedside clasping Mrs. Wilson's hand, while Mrs. Wilson, Mrs. Sayre and Miss Wilson knelt on the floor, their eyes upon their mother's face. Dr. Grayson and a nurse came and went silently, and the president looked beseechingly at the doctor.

Although Mrs. Wilson was unconscious, she smiled. Her breathing grew fainter and fainter, and Dr. Grayson realized that only a matter of minutes. His thoughts seemed to be communicated to the family, and they moved nearer. At five o'clock a clock chimed from the executive mansion. Dr. Grayson looked over his patient and as he realized that the end had come, he spoke gently to the president.

President's Request.

The president's last word to the leaders of the senate and house that it was his wish that the regular business continue, and that the lowering of the flags to half mast be the only public recognition of his death. He was desirous that congress continue in session without interruption.

The president has also expressed a desire that the funeral services be as simple as possible. Formal announcement was made at the White House today that the funeral services in the White House will be strictly private.

Mrs. Wilson had been ill since last February, when she fell in the White House and strained her spine. She later practiced from that injury but in the meantime, kidney trouble set in and gradually she grew weaker.

About two months ago her condition began to grow serious and two weeks ago Dr. Grayson became alarmed. Noted specialists were called in and trained nurses were kept in constant attendance. She continued to grow weaker, however, until serious sinking spells came on Monday and Tuesday.

Mrs. Wilson was 50 years old and when she fell in the White House was in robust health. Always a home lover, she nevertheless immediately assumed the arduous duties of the wife of a president. She took an active interest in public affairs and frequently received delegations calling on the president when he was too busy with other matters. Even during her last illness she frequently asked to be informed of the events of the United States and the world.

Rapidly Less Strength.
The news of the seriousness of her illness was kept from the public until Wednesday, when it was admitted that her chances of recovery were slight. During Wednesday night and early Thursday morning she was kept alive by oxygen and stimulants. She was cast in the afternoon. Dr. Grayson gave out another statement in which he said that Mrs. Wilson had had two sinking spells during the morning and that she was conscious but growing weaker. This was the last word to come before her death.

Mrs. Wilson was Miss Louise Axson, daughter of a Presbyterian minister, and was born at Savannah, Ga. She was a student at the New York Art League when she met Mr. Wilson, who was then taking a post-graduate course at Johns Hopkins university.

Mrs. Wilson was a skilled cook. Her social obligations forced her to forego the pleasures of artistic and literary recreations after she became mistress of the White House, but as "the first lady of the land" she was ever ready with advice and material help including responses to demands on her time, wherever a good cause might be served.

She had a knowledge of the domestic arts and was good cook. It is related of her that she liked to prepare dishes, or have them prepared under her personal supervision for the president and that she always made a point to personally prepare for him the orange juice he has with his breakfasts.

Artist and Student.
Mrs. Wilson was known by the entitled to the name "Miss Lou." Her education was gained at home and at the Woman's college in Rome, Ga. Later she studied at the Art Students' League, New York.

She had served as honorary president of the Southern Independent Educational association, the woman's department of the National Civic association and many other societies and held membership in the association of Women Painters and Sculptors.

Her landscape paintings have been exhibited in the National academy in New York City, the Chicago Academy of Fine Arts and the Chicago Art Institute.

In the summer of 1883 young Thomas Woodrow Wilson visited his cousin Jesse Woodrow Wilson in Rome, Ga. He met "Miss Lou." It was a case of love at first sight on both sides, and two weeks after their first meeting they were engaged. Their marriage, however, did not take place until two years thereafter, on June 24, 1885, in Savannah.

Three Daughters Survive.
She leaves besides the president, three daughters, Mrs. Sayre, Mrs. Eleanor McAdoo and Miss Margaret Wilson. One brother and one sister, both identified with Princeton university, also survive.

The Evening Chit-Chat

WASTED ENERGY.

ONE of the worst habits a human being can get into is that of doing things in the mind before he does them in reality.

The other night as I lay on the couch I saw a magazine lying under the chair. "I must pick that up when I get up," my mind registered. Then I went on reading. But presently I found my mind was not entirely on my book. A part of it was picking up that magazine. Now I have to stoop over. Those portions of housekeeping such as making beds, using a dust pan, dusting the lower parts of the pantry, etc., which involve stooping, I dislike the most. Therefore the thought of picking up that magazine was an unwelcome one and hence it obsessed my mind.

Finally I got up, picked up the magazine and went back to my book. But I was ashamed of myself for doing that. I should have been able to put the matter absolutely out of mind until I was ready to attend to it. Next time I shall try to do that, for, as I say, I think the habit of permitting one's mind to be obsessed by something you are going to do later is extremely dangerous to one's happiness and efficiency.

It is this habit that often tires housekeepers more than their actual work. A neighbor of mine lies in the hammock on her rose screened veranda swinging idly to and fro. It was a beautiful afternoon; her work of the day was done; she had on a becoming gown; she should have been happy and at peace. But I noticed every now and then an anxious look came into her face, and I enquired the reason.

"I am thinking about that fruit I am going to preserve tomorrow," she answered, "and wondering where I will put it when it's done. My pantry is so crowded already."

You see she was doing in her mind work that she would actually do on the morrow and thus doubly tiring herself.

A friend of mine who hates to get up in the morning says that while she lies in bed dreading to start she thinks about it so intensely that she seems to project as imaginary self out of bed. "Again and again I can feel myself get up and go over to the chair where my clothes are, before I actually do get up."

Now don't you think such a process must tire her?

A similar habit is to have several things one wishes to remember seething around in the back of one's mind and to torture one's self by going over them every little while.

For instance, there are a host of little things you want to put in your bag when you go away. You think of them; try to recall them a few hours later; find you have forgotten, remembered them; and then forget them again.

Now that is all needless wear and tear on the mind. Free your mind of it at once in one of two ways. Either get those things together ready to put in the bag or make a list of them.

A tired mind is worse than a tired body, because it is so much more difficult to get it rested. So do not lessen your efficiency by making your mind do the things that your body should do.

Heart and Home Problems

BY MISS ANNABELL TURNER, INSTRUCTOR IN HOME ECONOMICS, UNIVERSITY OF WISCONSIN EXTENSION DIVISION.

Dear Mrs. Thompson: (1) What the two whites of eggs to a stiff will cure round shoulders? (2) frosting, adding one tablespoonful sugar. Please give me a good recipe for gar; spread this on top of pie, sprinkle cream pies. BLUE-EYED ROSE.

(1) Make up your mind, in the first place, not to stoop. Will power will help you more than anything. Then begin to breathe deep. Lift up your chin and your chest and feel your lungs expand clear down to your stomach. Keep your stomach in and your chest out. Swing your arms when you walk, and walk as if you amount to something in the world. Do not believe in shoulder braces, for as soon as you leave them off your shoulders will sag down again; braces weaken the muscles.

(2) Cream Pie—Cream together the yolks of two eggs and one cup sugar; add one and one-half table-spoonfuls cornstarch and pinch of salt. Have ready one and one-half pints milk, boiling hot. Stir the creamed eggs in boiling milk and let it cook a few minutes. Have pie shell ready and put this in the shell. Whip the two whites of eggs to a stiff frothing, adding one tablespoonful sugar; spread this on top of pie, sprinkle with coconut and set in the oven to brown.

Dear Mrs. Thompson: I used to go with a girl for about eight months. She never showed her love to me, but I always loved her. She never invited me to come and see her. Then she married and she shows her love more and more. Is it right for me to keep company with her since I am married? Please advise me what to do. FRISCO.

Just suppose it was your wife standing in your shoes. What would you think of her if she wanted to keep company with somebody she knew before she was married to you?

Now that you are married your first duty is to be true to your wife. Any girl who shows her love to you now is knowingly doing wrong. Can you love a girl like that?

Have nothing to do with this girl. She is vain and the only reason she runs after you now is because you hurt her vanity by marrying some other girl. She never loved you and doesn't love anybody but herself now.

Dear Mrs. Thompson: As I see you are a friend to everybody, please advise me also. (1) I am a girl of 17 years, but never did have any pleasant hours on account of my parents. They treat me very mean, creamed eggs in love with a boy of 26. He is very pretty, gentle and rich. The way he acts it looks like he loves me.

It is always a safe precaution to set the color in most wash fabrics. It is decidedly worth while for delicate colors.

Salt is a valuable aid in making colors fast as it acts as a mordant for the substantive dyes most commonly used for cotton and linen. A handful of salt in a dish of cold water, however, is not sufficient. The material or garment must be placed in a strong hot solution and allowed to stand until the water is cool to obtain the best results. Salt is cheap, is usually on hand, and is probably the best for all around use, but the effect of brine is said not to be lasting.

Among other good mordants are: Sugar of lead for all colors except blue and blue; salt peter for pinks and blues; vinegar for pinks; alum for greens, mauves, purples, etc.

The following proportions should be used: To one gallon of water add ½ cup mild vinegar; 2 cups salt; 1 tablespoon alum; or 1 tablespoon sugar of lead.

Faded blue garments are freshened by rinsing in a strong bluing solution. Other delicate colors would often profit by a similar treatment in a dye solution of the same color.

THE KITCHEN CABINET

To write some earnest verse or line, which seeking not the praise of art, shall make a clearer faith and manhood shine in the unuttered heart.

He who doth this, in verse or prose, may be forgotten in his day, but surely shall be crowned at last with those who live and speak for aye.

DELICIOUS SPRING DISHES.

If one is fortunate enough to have rhubarb in the garden many most delicious combinations may be prepared; if it must be bought in the market have it as young as possible. Do not peel but cut in lengths six to eight inches long. If not crisp let stand in water for an hour or two. Then skin and cut in bits. The color is much better if the skin is left on, and if young it will cook tender. To a quart of the fruit add three cupfuls of sugar, three oranges and a half a teaspoonful of mace in the blade, a dozen cloves and an inch piece of cinnamon. Stew the rhubarb with sugar and spice, breaking the mace in small pieces. Wash the oranges and peel the thin, yellow rind in small bits, add this with the pulp which has been scooped out of the halved fruit, and if necessary two tablespoonfuls of water. Cover the dish closely and put into a hot oven. Cook until the rhubarb is translucent, either pale green or pink, immersed in a clear, rich sirup.

Deviled Young Onions.—Peel, trim and cut into inch lengths two bunches of green onions, stalks and all. Cook them in two cupfuls of seasoned veal stock until tender. Make a cupful of white sauce and when smooth and thick add two finely chopped gherkins, a teaspoonful of mustard (dry) and two well-beaten egg yolks. Have ready five slices of dry toast arranged in a shallow buttered dish, pour over them half the sauce, add the drained onions, then the remainder of the sauce. Cover with a layer of buttered crumbs and brown in a quick oven.

A Quick Cake.—Beat two eggs until thick, add a cupful of sugar gradually, beating all the time. Sift a cupful of flour with half a teaspoonful of salt and two teaspoonfuls of baking powder. Add quickly a half-cupful of hot milk and a tablespoonful of butter in the milk to melt it. Add any desired flavoring and bake in a moderate oven.

Pleasant Fields of Holy Writ

Motto for this week: "The mystery in the works of God is only as the name for your ignorance."—Richard Cecil, 1749-1819.

Third Quarter, Lesson VI, Mark 11:12-23, August 9, 1914.

THE BARREN FIG TREE AND THE DEFILED TEMPLE.

Temperance Lesson.

(THE STORY.)

The "Lamb" of the marriage scene at Cana suddenly became a "Lion" in the presence of the gross provocation of the Jews. The word "Lamb" is a symbol of innocence and purity, and the "Lion" is a symbol of wrath and judgment. The contrast between the two is striking, and the story of the barren fig tree and the defiled temple is a powerful illustration of the difference between outward show and inward reality.

At the Gate of Nain

By REV. GEORGE E. GUILLE
Bible Teacher, Moody Institute,
Chicago

TEXT—He went into a city called Nain.

His own lips could pronounce upon the labor of his hands, "Very good!"

Not this what it is to the unregenerate heart, that refuses to recognize the rule wrought by sin? Yes, the heart that has no ties elsewhere; that has not "tasted the powers of the world to come;" nor seen the glorious realities of things eternal, finds it fair and pleasant still.

But alas! this pleasant world has become a valley of the shadow of death, for behold! at the very gate of Nain, proclaiming its real condition, a dead man is carried out. Death is the way out of the world still, and death is the awful shadow over it.

"Death reigned from Adam to Moses," and reigns today, the world, with all its boasted wisdom, having found no remedy for it. On every portal, death with relentless hand, has carved his terrible crest, and upon all creation he has placed his stamp. "The world passeth away."

This is the scene into which Christ has come, as here he comes to Nain—came with life and salvation and opening heaven to the lost of the earth.

What sorrows, too, are in fair Nain! Behold this widow weeping for her only son, and much people in the city, following and weeping with her. For sin has brought not only death, but a multitude of sorrows, into the world. However fair it may be, however beautiful the names by which it may be called, however much it may furnish the natural heart with pleasure—sorrow remains the great foe of human life. The great sea of life is salty with human tears, and the sighing of the wind is the echo of the threnody of broken hearts. "The whole creation groaneth and travaileth in pain together until now."

But the Man of Sorrows draws nigh and Nain must answer to its name. With him at its gate, all is changed, and we see the divine remedy for all the ills brought in by sin.

1. "When Jesus saw her, he was moved with compassion." Yes it was compassion that brought him down to save, compassion for my lost estate, compassion for the helpless misery to which sin reduced me. "Moved with compassion at my tears for sin, he has come to my help."

2. "And he said unto her, Don't cry, don't cry!" Who is this stranger breaking in upon her grief with his tender sympathy? Can he quench these tears? Has he a balm for that broken heart? Yes, he has, and he freely gives it; and in doing so gives us a picture of all his finished work. The Christ of Calvary will make good his every word.

3. "He touched the bier!" "Touch it he must if his word is to have power over it." He must die, if he would have to say to death, "Where is thy sting?"

"The sting of death is sin," and he must be "made sin for us" to take away that sting. He must "taste death for every man," who is to arise from it at his word. He must go into it in order to triumph over it, and "whereas as the children are partakers of flesh and blood, he likewise himself, also took part of the same, that through death he might deliver them who through fear of death were all their lifetime subject to bondage." "Christ, being raised from the dead, dieth no more; death hath no more dominion over him." But he has dominion over it, and thus he touches the bier.

In Israel it meant defiance to come in contact with death. But Jesus must touch it, yet remain undimmed.

4. And having touched it he can say, and his word stand fast, "Young man, I say unto thee, Arise."

And these words, which in a thousand tongues, he is repeating in the ears of the multitudes "dead in trespasses and sins." Know, O man without Christ, that this young man at Nain's gate is your picture. Dweller in Nain—in a world still "fair" to the eye, but upon which sin has brought an awful curse—you are dead.

5. "And he that was dead sat up and began to speak." "Hath he said and shall he not do it, hath he spoken and shall he not make it good?"

O soul, hast thou heard his voice? Hast thou "sat up" out of thine awful death in trespasses and sins, "a new creation" in Christ Jesus? Hast thou begun to speak with a new tongue in the language they speak in heaven? All hail, bearer of Jesus' voice! "They that hear shall live!"

LUTHERAN PASTORS TO PRAY FOR PEACE

Members of Lutheran Ministerial Alliance of Madison Make Proposal for Entire State. (Special to the Gazette.) Madison, Wis., Aug. 7.—Resolutions passed by the Lutheran Ministerial Alliance of this city, to be submitted to the Lutheran pastors of Wisconsin, suggest that next Sunday, Aug. 9, or the following Sunday be utilized for sermons in favor of peace, with special reference to conditions in Europe. After reciting that the nations involved are related to the people of the United States by blood, language, faith and other ties, and that the Christian church is and should be the principal advocate and exponent of peace, the resolutions are a suitable reference to the subject on Sunday, and suggest "that the Collect for peace be read, or other special prayer be offered for an early re-establishment of peace by arbitration." The resolutions are signed by Axel Christensen of Oregon; Wis.; L. Dordal, J. Ebert, Howard R. Gold, Harold M. Olson, O. G. U. Siljan and Otto J. Wilke of Madison.

MEASURING LAMP'S LIGHT

Newly Patented Device for Quickly Determining Its Candle Power. A simple and efficient device for determining the candle power of a lamp is a lamp post or other support of a like character has been recently invented by a Philadelphian. It is a portable device and is meant particularly for the convenience of gas companies and gas experts or municipal officials who might have occasion to test the character of lights. It consists principally of a photometer box on a staff with certain standards marked along its length. The box is supplied with a standard electric lamp taking its current from a battery carried in the pocket of the operator. The photometer box is supplied with mirrors reflecting the light of the lamp in such a manner that its intensity may be readily compared with that of the standard lamp. In use the operator may hold one end of the staff with one hand, and place the other end against the lantern or

FOR READILY DETERMINING THE LIGHT'S EFFICIENCY. globe of the street light. With his free hand the operator presses the handle elements together, thus establishing the circuit and releasing the clutch element, lighting the standard light and freeing the photometer box on the staff. The operator may then ascertain the candle power by comparison with the ordinary way and having done this, the operator releases the handle elements, thus breaking the circuit of the lamp and locking the photometer box on the staff. The operator at his convenience can then adjust the scale in respect to the pointer and so ascertain the candle power.

Child Acts Surgeon's Role. Sarah Shaffer, thirteen years old, of Los Angeles, Cal., developed into a little heroine when her five-year-old sister fell on the sidewalk while at play and shattered her elbow. Dr. Edward G. Wiley, chief police surgeon, explained patiently over the telephone how the splint should be put on, and Sarah made such a good job of it as to win the admiration of all who saw the tiny patient when she arrived at the receiving hospital with her little amateur nurse. The child's father is at the county hospital and their mother went to visit him. Maybelle fell and broke her arm. Sarah called up the receiving hospital, but owing to the distance was advised to call one of the district doctors. She could raise none, and again called the receiving hospital. Doctor Wiley told Sarah what to do to relieve the baby's pain, while the ambulance raced out to the Shaffer home, and Sarah obeyed instructions to the letter.

PUBLIC TAKE NOTICE! Chiropractic Defined:

Chiropractic is the science of adjusting the cause of disease by re-aligning the twenty-four movable vertebrae of the spine, releasing pressure on nerves radiating from the spine to ALL parts of the body, allowing nerves to carry their full quota of health current (nerve energy).

By correcting the cause the effect is eliminated. A perfect spine means perfect health. Let the vertebrae become displaced, press on the nerves, cut off the life current and there is certain to be disorders.

Hay Fever Trips May be Given Up

No Need to Take Long Trips to the Northern Country. Chiropractic, The Greatest of Modern Sciences, Removes the Cause of Hay Fever and You Get Well.

You who are troubled with this most distressing malady should see "The Chiropractor" at once. Your spine is out of order or the pollen floating through the air at this time of the year would not affect you. Owing to the impingement of the spinal nerve the nerve nourishment that goes to feed the mucous membrane of the throat and nose is held up at the spine and consequently the mucous membrane of the throat and nose become weakened and susceptible to the irritating pollen in the atmosphere. If the subluxation at the spine is corrected and the normal amount of nerve nourishment is allowed to flow to the mucous membranes they will regain their normal strength and atmospheric conditions will not trouble you.

Do You Know How to Select a Rug?

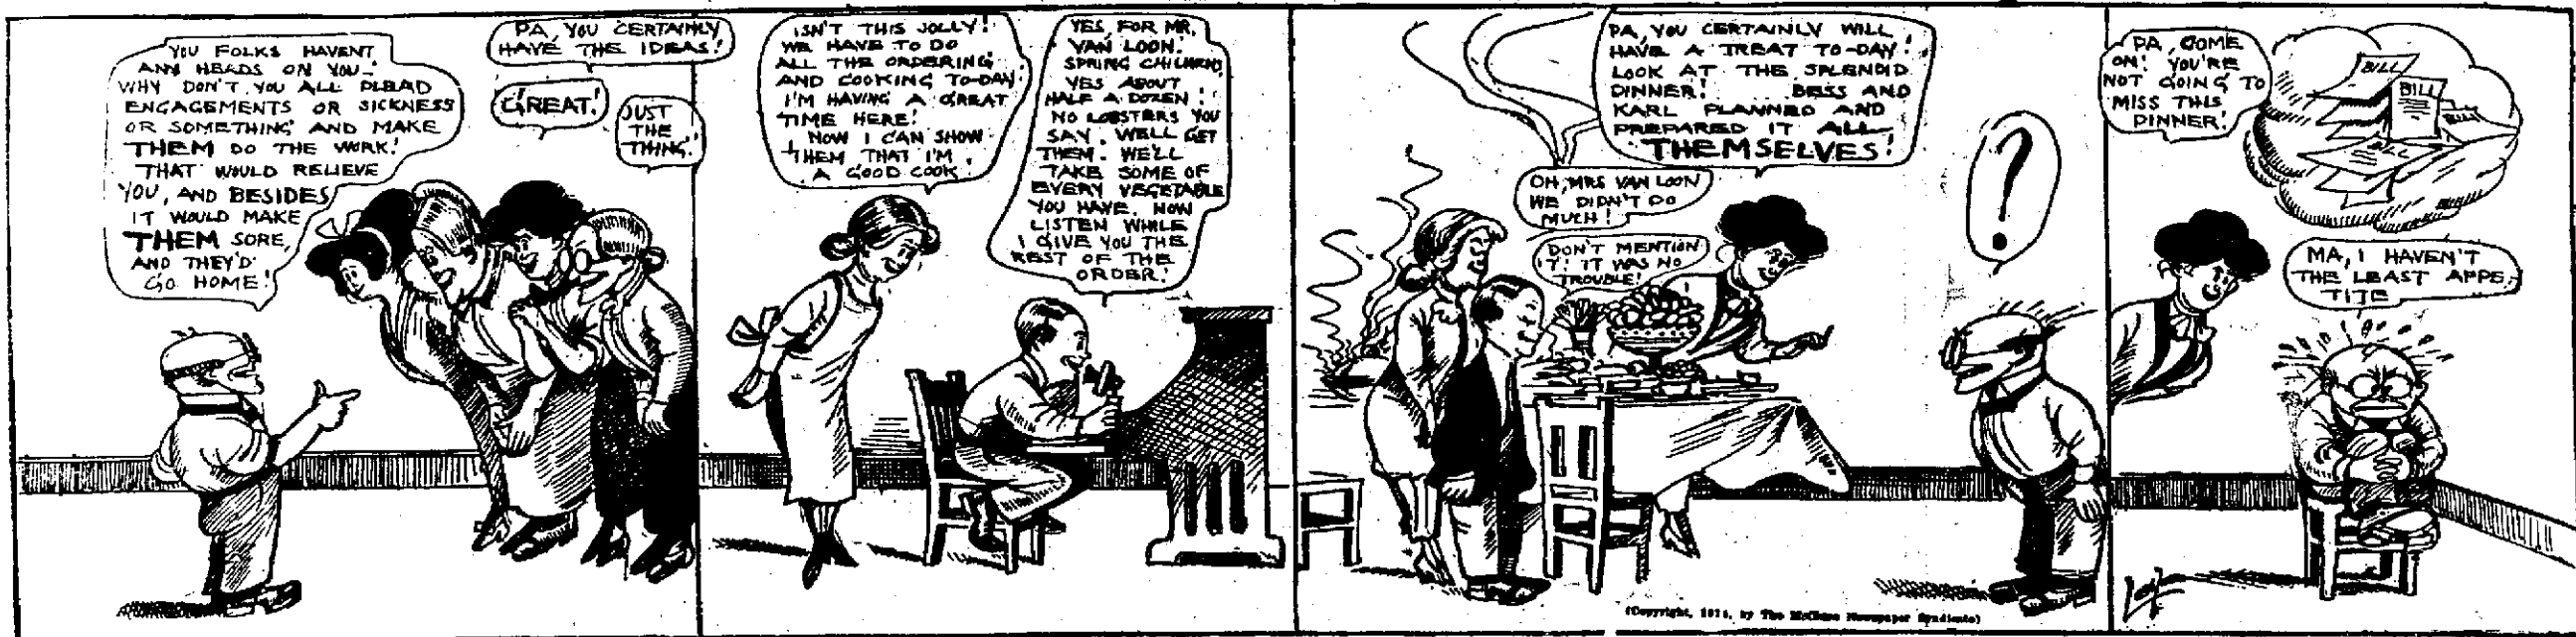

You would never think of paying for solid silver without looking for the stamp "Sterling." When you buy gold you look for the karat stamp.

Why not, then, when you buy a Rug, look for the Hall Mark of Rug Excellence? There is just one line of rugs made in this country today that is the best and that is—like gold and silver—standardized, and every rug in that line has woven into its back the quality guarantee.

WHITTALLS
The Mark of Quality

No matter where you buy a Whittall Rug you pay a standard price for it—it is the same in New York, San Francisco, Chicago or New Orleans. Isn't it worth something to know that in return for the money you invest in your rugs you receive a dollar's worth of standard quality? Besides, Whittall Rugs are the most beautiful and artistic on the market—they are made of Oriental Wools in Oriental designs and colorings and so wonderful in their texture they are worthy of intimate association with their Oriental Cousins.

plasters, some "wrappers" and some in salve form. Now comes "GETS-IT" with a new principle and a simple plan that never fails. That is why "GETS-IT" has grown in three years to be the biggest selling corn cure the world has ever known.

There's no more need of fussing with corns, no more digging or cutting. There's nothing to press down on the corn, nothing to inflame the flesh, to "pull" the corn or cause pain. Put two drops of "GETS-IT" on in two seconds. That's all. For any corn, callus, wart or bunion.

"GETS-IT" is sold by druggists everywhere. See a bottle, or sent direct by E. Lawrence & Co., Chicago.

Information for all Lung Sufferers

Would you like to know more about a remedy for Lung Trouble which has brought about many cures? The makers of Eckman's Alternative are in receipt of many really wonderful reports, and will be pleased to forward to you copies of original letters and also booklet on diet and proper care needed in recovering health. Investigate this case!—1919 Susquehanna Ave., Phila., Pa.

Dear Sir: For two years I was afflicted with hemorrhages of the system, and in February of 1902 I was taken with a severe attack of pneumonia. When I recovered sufficient to walk about the house I was left with a frightful hacking cough which no medicine I had taken could alleviate. It was at this time, March, 1902, that I started taking Eckman's Alternative. In a short time my cough was gone and I was pronounced well. I cannot speak too highly for the good it has done.

"Why, foolish," she interrupted with a laugh, "they won't grow this year." Then, as she saw his crestfallen look: "But never mind; did some bad man impose on my little city boy? We'll plant them and just make them grow. What are these? Nasturtiums, pansies, sweet peas—that's more like it; and I'm just crazy for a whole bed of salvia."

And so they talked and planned and selected the site for the beds, and Jane, who was much better versed in such matters than her urban husband, told him what would have to be done with the soil, a barren, sandy formation that would scarcely nourish a sunflower.

He ran into the house for his garden seeds, a whole array of the suburbanite's delights from radishes to musk melons. He had enough for a small farm. By the time they had decided where the domain of practical husbandry should end and that of the flowers begin, it was dark.

"If the lord chancellor of my culinary hosts pleases, I'm hungry," she informed him. "Let's kill the fatted silcock and make merry. If all those seeds of yours grow we'll have to turn vegetarians later, so we had better whet our appetites on beef."

"All right," he told her as they reached the veranda, "you just sit here and when dinner's all ready I'll announce it."

But in a minute he had surrendered and was calling her.

"Where in the world are things, Jane? The kitchen utensils, I mean. I've opened three boxes and I haven't struck anything but books and linen."

They found the needed box under two trunks and a pile of pictures. He got it open and led her back to the porch. He cleared the table and set it and then he was back to her again.

"The icebox is locked, Jane. Have you got the key?"

She found it in her bag.

"Oh, Bob," she said in tones pre-arranging real calamity, "there isn't a bit of bread."

"Never mind, I'll get some," he answered. "There's a store right down at the car line."

"But that's three blocks. Maybe one of the neighbors would help us out in an emergency."

"I'd rather not ask the first day. I'll only be a minute, Jane."

Soon after he returned she scented the welcome aroma of coffee and a broiling steak and in a minute he called her.

With a kitchen towel stuck under his collar and a face as red as a stoker's he held a chair for her and bade her to the board.

"There, how is that, my lady?" he asked proudly. "Could the Waldorf's famous Omelet do any better? Eat, drink and be—"

"Sleepy," she finished for him. "I just know I'm going to collapse right here when my hunger's satisfied, for Bob, I'm tired, and it's such a job to put up a bed."

"I'll fix that, honey. Never felt better in my life. Why, if I had a lantern I'd go out and start my garden after I get you tucked away."

They sat over the coffee talking and planning.

There was a knock at the door.

pearance betrayed her assertion that she usually took things as they were. She looked an easy-going, buxom sort; of good figure, but slightly passé otherwise as to personal charms and concomitant adornment. Her skirt of black serge was tight fitting and rather modish in cut, but soiled in places. Her white shirt-waist was open at the collar and tucked under, revealing a throat full and round, but red. Her hands matched this color and were coarse in texture. Her abundant hair was her chief attraction. It was done up in pompadour fashion and floated wildly here and there like some intrepid amazon's. But it, too, despite the magnificence of its growth, could not escape the general tone of dowdiness that embraced the whole; for, in the greater part it was a light gold, but in intervening strands and at the roots it showed a darker hue. Her eyes were clear blue with dark brows and lashes. Here nature had been neither cheated nor cajoled. Mrs. Collins' eyes, if all other clues were abandoned, pointed the way to past beauty; beauty not extant, but clouded; crossed by the lines of life; hard life; toilsome life. Mrs. Collins was forty-five and she looked her age. Granted luxury of servants; social pleasures, mental irresponsibilities and milk baths, she would have passed for thirty.

"Do you like it here?" asked Jane, who had now come forward and met her caller.

"Well, James likes it. Little old New York and a four-room flat was good enough for me, but he wanted a bit of the country, and I put up with it for his sake. But, don't let me discourage you, dearie," she added quickly as she detected a slight waning of the younger woman's smile, "it has its attractions here, too. It is mighty fine for children, only—we haven't got any."

"I must meet your husband," Bob declared. "I guess we are kindred spirits. I wanted a bit of the country, too, and a place I could call my own. Does Mr. Collins have a garden?"

"Oh, Lordy, yes. That's what he calls it, anyway. His specialty is potatoes that mostly don't amount to much. But he gets plenty of fresh air and exercise hoeing them and I guess that's better for him than polishing somebody's brass rail with his boot."

"How about flowers?" asked Jane.

"Don't you enjoy having them?"

"Goodness, child, I don't find much time for flowers, though I am mighty fond of geraniums. I had a bed of them the first year, but I found that the water here was more useful for washing dishes. Potatoes, you know, don't need any watering, so I leave the gardening to James."

Mrs. Collins arose. "Well, I'll be going, dear. I know how tired you are after a day like this. Don't forget, now, if there's anything you need in the morning, just run right over. The store won't be open Sunday and you are sure to have forgotten something."

Jane came forward again with extended hand. "That's awfully good of you, Mrs. Collins," she said cordially. "I will certainly take advantage of your offer."

"It's only human," her new neighbor answered. "People have got to stick together in places like this. When we came the only neighbors we had were mosquitoes and bullfrogs. The mosquitoes were friendly enough. They called around right away, and we could hear the bullfrogs at night. They kind of made me homesick, for I'm awfully fond of frog legs. But the butcher would laugh at you if you asked for them here. Once when I did get James to bring some home I didn't enjoy them, for I felt like I was a cannibal, eating my next-door folks. Good night."

Reynolds opened the door for her and as he closed it turned quickly and took his young wife in his arms. Their nearest neighbor was obviously friendly, but also disquieting. Her attempt at cheerfulness was tinged with an evident atmosphere of discontent. Her impressions of their environment amused, but jarred also. He felt that Mrs. Collins was not exactly the person he would have chosen to initiate his wife into the charms of their new abode. But he made light of his impressions.

"We don't mind mosquitoes and bullfrogs, do we, honey? Let's clear away the dishes and then I'll rig up a place for welcome slumber. There is sure work here and tomorrow won't be a day of rest for us."

CHAPTER II.

Dick Brings a Hoecake.

In Staten Island it is spring. Nature beckons. Across the bay from old Manhattan come new hosts to taste agrarian joys. Bob is happy; James is in his glory. Seeds are sprouting in the garden. A bed of radishes have thrown up their green shoots, the first harbingers of the season. Pale sprigs of early lettuce are peeping out. Beneath the glass frames of the hotheds Jumbo tomato plants are creeping upward. You can almost see them grow. Pine sticks supporting empty packets mark the site of embryo beans, peas and kohlrabi, and here is a row of poles for the delicious lima bean.

Back in her wire prison the Plymouth Rock sings and cackles, and beside her another fusses and scratches for her brood of fluffy chicks. On the porch of the Reynolds' cottage a canary trills and warbles, answering the chatter of myriad sparrows. In the kitchen Jane's song drowns the clatter of the dishes. Music is in the air; life is in the blood. Even Mrs. Collins has ceased to grumble. It is spring!

The Reynolds' dinner is for three tonight. For the first time since their coming the new home is to receive an urban caller.

"Good old Dick," said Jane as she set his place at the table. "I do hope he won't disappoint us."

Her fear was groundless. Dick Meade would not disappoint her, for he was an atom in the great legion of the unattached; a bachelor and alone. He had not formed the habit of declining invitations to dinner. Dick was a reporter on a morning newspaper in New York; a political reporter with a leaning toward socialism and a tendency toward drink.

Poor, blue-eyed, boyish Dick, with a panacea for all earthly ills except his own; champion of the downtrodden, but one of them; an aspiring St. Patrick longing to drive out all the hydra-headed serpents of monopoly with a wand of words; a dreamer of dreams, but lovable, withal, and a staunch friend. He and Reynolds were almost opposite types and this very difference in their lives made them companionable. Dick, also, was not blind to the attractions of his friend's young wife. She was a charming hostess, he thought. The dulcet harmony he found in this home often lulled his own feverish philosophy, or, at least, upset it.

Jane heard them approaching now and hurried out to the veranda.

"Welcome, stranger," she said after she had escaped from Bob's embraces. "You have almost forsaken us."

Dick responded with a laugh and an obsequious bow. "Never, fair one; I have merely been conserving resources that I may pay toll to corporate interests en route. Thirty cents for the round trip, Jane. Enough for wiener schnitzel and two pilseners. Besides, I bring tribute to my island queen. See!" He held up a pasteboard box punctured here and there with airholes that he concealed. Jane took it from him.

"Something alive!" she cried as she tried to peep into one of the apertures. She ran into the house for scissors and returning, cut the string. Within there peered at her from two sleepy, light-blinded eyes, a fox-terrier puppy, diminutive and finely marked.

"Oh, you little dear!" Lifting the pup from the box, she pressed its soft coat to her cheeks. "I've just been crazy for a dog, Dick; and isn't it a beauty?"

She put it on the floor, stooped and called: "Here, Dick; here, Dick! That's what we'll name him, won't we, Bob?"

"Honored beyond words," said the donor. "Why not Bob?"

"No; look at his eyes. They're blue just like yours, Dick, and he's so cunning!"

Meade bent down and patted the pup's head.

"Well, I'm glad she likes you, old top, since there's such a resemblance."

"You'd better feed him, Jane," Bob suggested. "I want Dick to see the garden so we'll prow around a while till dinner."

Reynolds' exact showed general anthusiasm over the progress of his friend's agricultural venture. For an amateur Reynolds had displayed skill as well as zeal. The space he had allotted to his garden comprised about a fourth of his half-acre lot. This he had divided into little rectangular plots about thirty feet deep and fifteen wide. Narrow paths ran between so that each could be cultivated and watered without treading on the bed itself.

"You must have had some expert opinion here, Bob," Dick ventured. "I never saw a more orderly garden. Looks like you had laid it out with a rule and square. Where did you get the idea?"

"Jane helped out a lot and then I studied government bulletins. They told me what to do for the soil. It wasn't much better than a lot of sawdust when we came, Dick. It was good for some things, but not for others. I looked all that up, and so there is different treatment of the ground in different beds; lime, potash, bone and plain fertilizer. That's modern-day farming, my boy; the way your depressed trusts would do things if they were trying to raise beans and cabbages. You see, there is system for the little man as well as the capitalist. If he will only take advantage of it, I'll bet you I get twice as much out of that garden as my friend Collins down the street, and he's had two years' start of me."

"Great; I hope you do. But where in the world did you find the time for all the work you've put into this patch?"

"Got up with the sun and put in an hour before breakfast. The novelty of it all took the edge off the toil and I've really enjoyed it."

They heard Jane calling them to dinner and went in.

"Where is my namesake?" Dick inquired.

"Asleep in the kitchen. The little dear had nearly half a pint of milk and I guess he's done for the night."

"The evening, you mean," said Bob. "Just wait till his digestive organs have had a chance. He's got one of the cutest little soprano voices you ever heard and we're in for plenty of midnight solos till he becomes accustomed. I've related some before."

Dinner Stories

"You know, madam," said the seedsman, "you don't have to plant your potatoes whole; you can cut them up in small pieces."

"Yes, I know," said Mrs. Newwife, "that might do very well if we always wanted to raise potatoes for Lyonnaisse or for mashing, but we should probably desire to have potatoes served whole now and then."

A reporter was interviewing Thomas A. Edison.

"And you, sir," said he to the inventor, "made the first talking machine."

"No," Mr. Edison replied; "the first one was made long before my time—out of a rib."

Shortly after the return of the fleet two naval officers were talking about their wives. Naturally they used nautical terms.

"What a dear little craft your wife is!" said the first.

"Dear and little," did you say? She is dear, all right; but there's nothing little about her. Why, she is the biggest revenue cutter I have ever seen."

A witty Londoner, going to dine with a lady, was met by her with a face of apology.

"I could not get another man,"

she said, "and we are four women, and you will have to take us all in to dinner."

"Forewarned is four-armed," said he, with a bow.

Pray and You Will Receive.

As the family was about to leave the dinner table little Elsie was observed with her head bowed and her hands clasped. "Why, Elsie," said her mother, "don't you know that dinner is over?" "Don't interrupt me, please," replied Elsie. "I'm praying for another dish of that puddin'."—Chicago News.

Don't Hide Them With A Veil; Remove Them With The Othine Prescription.

This prescription for the removal of freckles was written by a prominent physician and is usually so successful in removing freckles and giving a clear, beautiful complexion that it is sold by Badger Drug Co. under guarantee to refund the money if it fails.

Don't hide your freckles under a veil; get an ounce othine and remove them. Even the first few applications should show a wonderful improvement, some of the lighter freckles vanishing entirely.

Be sure to ask the druggist for the double strength othine; it is this that is sold on the money-back guarantee.

USE PRISON LABOR WITH GOOD RESULTS

Employment of Prisoners On Highway Up-State Meets With Success Says Ralph E. Smith.

(SPECIAL TO THE GAZETTE.)

Madison, Wis., Aug. 7.—The employment of prisoners on road construction is proving a success, according to Ralph E. Smith, president of the state board of control. Two camps of prisoners are now engaged in road work. One of thirty-seven men is constructing a road from Chester to Waupun, and a second camp of twenty men is working at Taycheedah, where the new women's reformatory is to be erected.

Under a ruling made by the state board of control yesterday, the prisoners employed in road work will receive 50 cents a day, which will be placed to their credit for the use of their families or those dependent upon them. The prisoners in neither camp are taken back to the penitentiary at night, but are kept in tents on the site of the construction work. In the camp that is building the road from Chester to Waupun no guards are kept, but the work is supervised by one superintendent and an assistant. The men for this work are selected on the basis of their good behavior in the past and their possible behavior in the future. One of the prisoners in this camp is an experienced road builder. One is a life term.

At the Taycheedah camp the men are constructing roads, building sewers and tunnels and making preparations for the erection of the reformatory there. A switch track roadbed is being constructed from the Northwestern road to the site where the buildings are to be erected.

ILLINOIS MOOSERS PLAN FOR VICTORY

Progressive Party in Sucker State Hopes to Increase Power by Whirlwind Campaign.

(SPECIAL TO THE GAZETTE.)

Chicago, Ill., Aug. 7.—With state and congressional headquarters now open, and the state primaries barely a month away, the progressive campaign in Illinois today is in full swing. Medill McCormick, state chairman today predicted the election of a progressive to the United States senate this fall, an increase in the Illinois progressive delegation in the house of representatives from three to seven, and the election of twenty more members to the Illinois legislature.

Colonel Roosevelt is expected to enter Illinois after the September primaries to tour the state in behalf of Raymond Robins, Progressive candidate for the Senate. Albert J. Beveridge only recently completed a speech-making tour in behalf of Robins, and Henry J. Allen, Progressive candidate for governor of Kansas, may assist in the Bull Moose speaking campaign here. The heaviest share of the speaking campaign, however, will fall upon the shoulders of Illinois Progressive orators including Miss Jane Addams, Prof. Charles E. Merriam, and the Progressive representatives in Congress from Illinois.

The Robins Senatorial campaign, and the fight to elect a Progressive administration in Cook county, of which Chicago is the seat, overshadow the other battles of Progressives in Illinois this year. In the state primaries of September 9, Senator Lawrence Sherman undoubtedly will be re-nominated on the Republican ticket. Roger C. Sullivan, gas magistrate and former Democratic national committeeman, and Congressman Lawrence E. Stricker, are the leading candidates for the Democratic nomination. Robins has the undivided support of the Progressives.

The Progressives believe that Sullivan will win the Democratic nomination in spite of the fact that Secretary of State Bryan, Governor Dunne, Senator J. Hamilton Lewis, and Mayor Harrison, of Chicago, have endorsed Stricker. If Sullivan is nominated the Progressives predict the election of Robins, basing their claims on the belief that thousands of Progressive Democrats will vote for the Bull Moose nominee.

If Stricker is nominated, they believe Robins still will have an excellent chance, though admittedly not as good as one were Sullivan to be his opponent. They do not concede Senator Sherman has a chance of re-election.

Through a wide split in the Cook county Republican ranks, the Progressives see their chance to elect a majority of the new county administration. President A. A. McCormick of the county board, who was elected as a Republican two years ago, accepted the Progressive nomination this year. One faction of the Republicans named a slate with a candidate to oppose McCormick. An insurgent element in the Republican party in Cook county named still another slate, and placed McCormick at the head of the ticket.

Representatives Copley, Hinbaugh and Thompson, Progressive members of Congress from Illinois, will be re-elected this fall, the Progressives firmly believe, on the records they have so far made. They assert they will elect four new members, but will not name the districts in which they expect these victories.

It is no secret that the Bull Moose following is depending a great deal on a heavy miners' vote for the Progressive ticket in the coal fields of Southern Illinois because of the friendliness of the Progressive Senatorial candidate towards Union labor. Of the 150 members of the last Illinois legislature, twenty-six were Progressives. State Chairman McCormick predicted today that by reason of Bull Moose gains no party will have more than sixty-five, nor less than forty-five members of the new legislature.

PRINCE ALEXANDER IS LIKELY TO BE REAL WAR LEADER OF SERBIAN ARMY

Prince Alexander.

While King Peter the aged ruler of Serbia who some time ago gave up the cares of statecraft and retired from the throne, has now announced that he will personally lead the army of the Serbs, it is likely that his son, the crown prince, who has been acting prince, will continue in reality in power. Crown Prince Alexander did gallant work on the battlefield during the Balkan war, winning the commendation of all who witnessed his fearlessness. Prince Alexander is a younger son of King Peter and became crown prince in 1908 when his brother George renounced his right to the throne.

DIES FROM KICK OF HORSE ON THURSDAY

Fred Reeder Suffered Injuries Which Resulted In His Death.—Evansville Man Injured.

Evansville, Aug. 7.—Fred Reeder, aged fifty, for many years a resident of Rock and Grant counties, died Thursday morning as a result of injuries sustained Wednesday night, when he was kicked by a horse, breaking his chest and ribs, one of which penetrated his lungs. He lived a mile west of the city. He leaves a wife and twelve children. The funeral will be held Sunday.

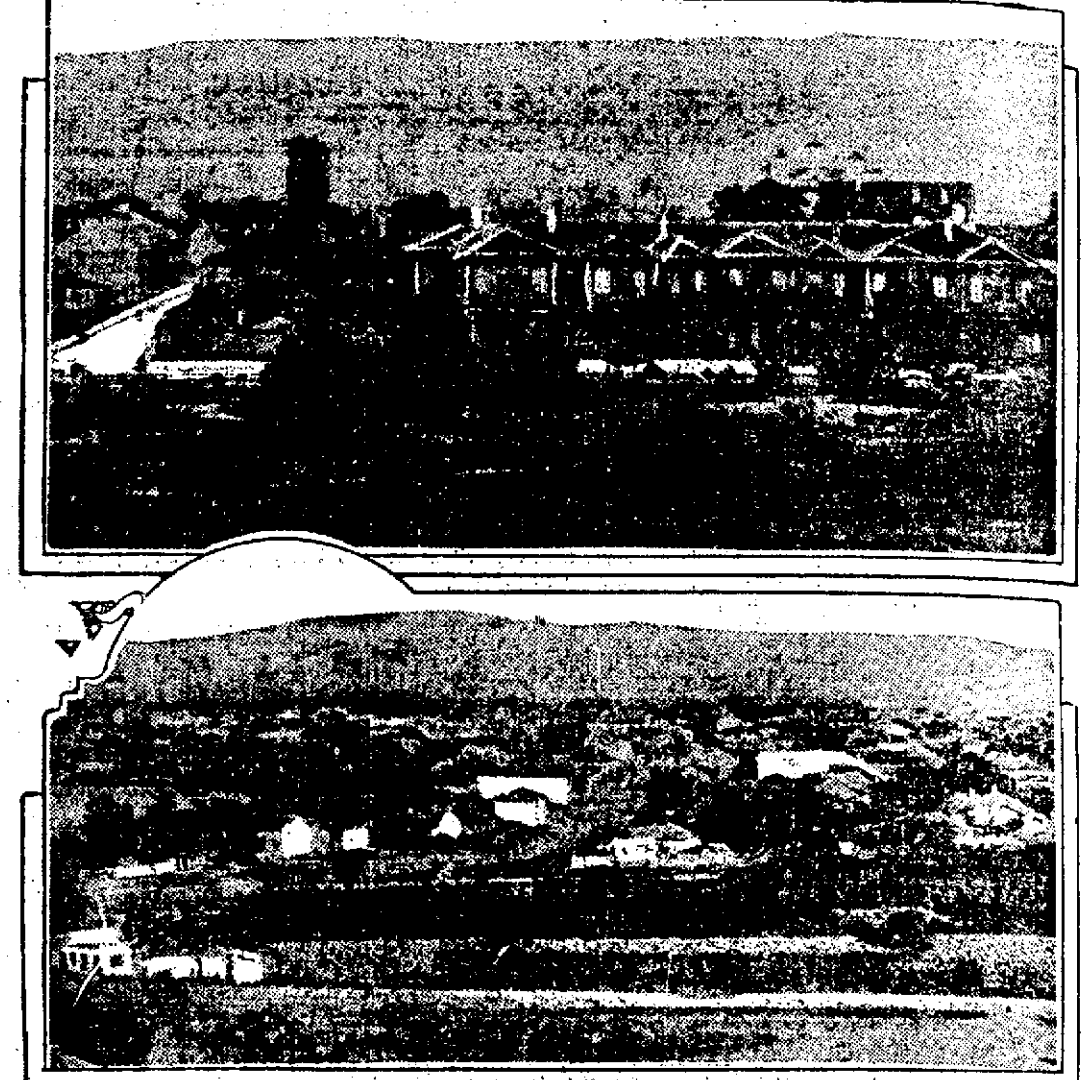

Carl Weissbaum, employed at the Baker Mfg. Co., had his foot badly crushed this morning when an elevator caught it between the edge of the car and the flooring. It is not thought that amputation will be necessary.

TEMPORARY WAR CAPITAL OF THE SERBIANS IS NOT MUCH CHANGED FROM WHAT IT WAS THREE CENTURIES AGO

Nisch, to which the Serbian capital is reported removed, is one of the oldest cities in Serbia, and has a population of 35,000. Although the town lies on the direct route from Paris to Constantinople, it remains much the same as it was three centuries ago. It stands on a vast plain.

REHBERG'S

YOU probably know our new store---we believe most of you do---the fact that our business has been leaping far ahead of our expectations proves that many of you have been here. To those who are as yet "uninitiated" we have a word to say. Our new store is larger, finer, easier to shop in than our old one; it's really the handsomest store in Janesville or in fact in the entire southern part of this great state. But in one important matter it hasn't changed a particle. It's still the store that believes that value-giving by which it has become the best known of all men's clothing store's in this part of the state---still the store that realizes that its own success is but a reflection of its customer's satisfaction---still the cosmopolitan store with as deep a consideration for the interests of the man of moderate means as for the man to whom "price is no object."
